

The manuscripts should be in English. Linguistic usage must be correct. The papers could not be already published or submitted to other editions. Manuscripts prepared contrary to these guidelines will be rejected prior to the reviewing process.

The structure of the manuscript: title (preferably not exceeding 100 characters); full name(-s) and surname(-s) of author(-s); address(-es) of author(-s), e-mail address; Abstract (up to 20 lines, including names of authors and title of the paper); Keywords (up to 10); text of the paper (subdivided if possible as follows: Introduction, Materials and Methods, Results, Discussion (Results and Discussion), Acknowledgements); References; Summary in Lithuanian (summary for foreign authors will be translated by the editors).

The structure of the short note: title; full name(-s) and surname(-s) of author(-s); address(-es) of author(-s), e-mail address; abstract; keywords; text (preferably not subdivided); references. Contributions not exceeding 5100 characters (including spaces) or 3.5 standard pages (including illustrations) are treated as short notes.

The structure of the review: title and authors of the reviewed publication; full bibliography of the reviewed publication (publishers, ISBN code, etc.); text; references (if necessary); full name(-s) and surname(-s) of author(-s) of the review; address(-es) of author(-s).

Manuscript submission. Submit an electronic version in document (*.doc) format. Provide margins of at least 3 cm on both sides and 2.5 cm on top and bottom. Double-space all material (except tables).

The title of the paper should be printed in CAPITALS. The names of the cited authors should be printed in SMALL CAPS. The words at the end of lines should not be divided. Text should be justified but not centred, including titles as well as headings and sub-headings.

Tables should be numbered in order of appearance in the text. Tables with their titles should be placed after the text. The line of a table should not exceed 80 characters. Landscape tables are not accepted.

All figures, i.e. black and white line drawings, maps, graphs, or diagrams (preferably 120 × 160 mm, not larger than 200 × 250 mm) with their titles should be inserted at the end of manuscript. Lettering and all figure components must be sufficiently clear to permit severe reduction without loss of clarity. All illustrations must be numbered consequently using Arabic numerals. Authors intending to print colour illustrations will be asked for a page-charge (150 EUR or 500 LTL per page).

The author(-s) of all taxa (from family rank and lower) and syntaxa names should be indicated when first time mentioned in the text. Use “et” between double authors in scientific plant or syntaxa names and use “et al.” for multiple (three or more) co-authors, except names of syntaxa where all co-authors should be indicated. All names of taxa and syntaxa should be printed in italic type.

A space must always follow after a period, colon, semicolon, or comma (except within numerals and standard abbreviations such as e.g., i.e., i.a., and l.c.): “W. S. J. G. Besser” not “W.S.J.G.Besser”; “2: 50” not “2:50”.

The list of references should include all items cited in the text. If there are more than two authors of the cited publication, in the text the first one should be given with indication “et al.” In references all the authors should be indicated. References in the text are to be cited with author(-s) and year. Examples: ...has been investigated by SUKOPP (1998), BÜCKER & DIRK (1998), and CHILD et al. (1998)... or ... (SUKOPP, 1998; BÜCKER & DIRK, 1998; CHILD et al., 1998).

Complete titles of journals and other periodicals should be given in the list. Publications printed using Latin characters should be cited in the original. Title published using Cyrillic or other alphabet should be transliterated into Latin characters. In “References” bold type should be used to indicate volume and number of the edition.

Final versions of text should be provided in electronic form. Electronic versions should be provided as Word PC-versions (*.doc or *.rtf files) and can be sent as e-mail attachments (botanica.lithuanica@botanika.lt) or on discs. Only Times New Roman or other Times group 12 pt fonts should be used. When special characters are necessary, other fonts can be used, however, font names and character codes should be explained on separate sheet. In the text such characters should be marked with yellow background.

If original drawings are provided, label the back of each illustration (in soft pencil) with the following information: author's name, figure number, and indication of the top. Computer produced illustrations should be additionally submitted in original files. Electronic versions of scanned figures (as *.tif or *.jpg files) must be with minimum resolution of 300 dpi (600 dpi is recommended). All paper must be in a single file (except originals of illustrations). Titles of files should include surname of the first author, followed by other information about the subject of paper.

Within 10 days author should read and return proof sheet to the editorial staff. If the editorial staff does not receive the proof sheet in due time, the paper will be published without final approval of the author. Author (first one if there are co-authors) receives electronic copy (in pdf format) of published paper, which can be distributed for non-commercial purposes without limitations.
